Help community members learn to swim by supporting the Swim For It Campaign

Initiative raising funds for drowning prevention; donations can be made at waterparks and beach parks

[CHARLESTON COUNTY] – While visiting the Charleston County Park and Recreation Commission's (CCPRC) waterparks and beach parks this summer, guests can support a very worthy cause – helping others in the community learn how to swim.

Visitors are encouraged to consider donating to Charleston County Parks Foundation's Swim For It campaign, which raises money to prevent drownings through swim instruction and water safety classes. Donations to Swim For It will support aquatic safety programs in rural areas of Charleston County, including at CCPRC's West County Aquatic Center, which opened in 2019.

Donations can be made at the ticket booths of Splash Island waterpark in Mount Pleasant Palmetto Islands County Park, Splash Zone waterpark at James Island County Park, and Whirlin' Waters Adventure Waterpark at North Charleston Wannamaker County Park. Visitors to the West County Aquatic Center, as well as CCPRC's beach parks – Kiawah Beachwalker Park, Folly Beach County Park and Isle of Palms County Park – can also make donations on site during their visit. The Charleston County Parks Foundation's website will also accept donations at CharlestonCountyParksFoundation.org.

A nonprofit 501(c) (3) organization, The Charleston County Parks Foundation was created in May 1990 by CCPRC to generate funding for the continued growth and development of the county park system, and to support increased leisure opportunities for residents. The Swim For It campaign is a part of the Genesis Project, established in 2014 after the tragic drowning of a 13-year-old boy named Genesis Holmes. The project's vision is to eliminate the number of drowning victims in Charleston County by providing the community with access to pools for swimming lessons, water safety classes, recreational programming and leisure activities. For more information on the foundation or to make a donation to the Swim For It Campaign or other projects, visit CharlestonCountyParksFoundation.org.

According to the Center for Disease Control, 10 people die every day from unintentional drowning; of those, two are children ages 14 or younger. Fatal drowning is the fifth-leading cause of unintentional injury-related deaths for children 14 and younger.

Charleston County waterparks are currently open daily until mid-August and then weekends only until Labor Day weekend. Isle of Palms County Park and Kiawah Beachwalker Park are currently open 9 a.m. – 8 p.m.; Folly Beach County Park is open 8 a.m. to sunset. The Charleston County Parks Foundation is a nonprofit organization formed in 1990 by CCPRC. Its mission is to help ALL residents experience Charleston County Parks and programs. Presently, the foundation is working on three projects: The Genesis Project, the Pass It Forward Project and the McLeod Plantation Historic Site Project. The Genesis Project focuses on drowning prevention in the Lowcountry by raising funds to offer aquatic programs in the Johns Island, Awendaw/McClellanville and Ravenel/Hollywood areas. The Pass It Forward Project provides opportunities and scholarships for all members of our community to enjoy parks and programs. The McLeod Plantation Historic Site Project supports the Charleston County Park & Recreation Commission's cultural and historical research, preservation, interpretation, and education for diverse audiences with an emphasis on underrepresented histories at this site and throughout Charleston County Parks. For more information on The Charleston County Parks Foundation, call 843-762-2172 or visit www.CharlestonCountyParksFoundation.org.

The mission of CCPRC is to improve the quality of life in Charleston County by offering a diverse system of park facilities, programs and services. The large park system features over 11,000 acres of property and includes four land parks, three beach parks, three dog parks, a skate park, two landmark fishing piers, three waterparks, 19 boat landings, a climbing wall, a challenge course, an interpretive center, an equestrian center, cottages, a campground, a marina, a historic plantation site, as well as wedding, meeting and event facilities. The park system also offers a wide variety of recreational services – festivals, camps, classes, programs, and more.
